

THE JOURNAL OF VOLUNTEER ADMINISTRATION

TIMELY. Stay on top of what's happening in the field of volunteer resources management around the world. Take what you read and easily apply it on the job. Be prepared for the future as new trends emerge.

TIMELESS. Refer to The Journal of Volunteer Administration for perspectives that date back to 1982. Benefit from the ongoing evolution of the profession. Back up your assumptions with research that has already been proven and applied.

"The Journal has provided me with a wealth of information. Over the years I have learned from my peers how to become more effective and efficient in volunteer resources development and integration."

Valerie Cooper, Regional Director, Kids Help Phone, Calgary, Alberta, Canada

"Articles in the Journal come from scholars and practitioners. In each issue you find practical advice, scholarly studies, statistics, and theory wedded together to help you do your job more effectively."

Nancy Macduff, President, Macduff/Bunt Associates, Walla Walla, Washington, USA; Faculty, Washington State University, Volunteer Management Certificate Program, Pullman, Washington, USA

Published by the international Association for Volunteer Administration, this quarterly publication features:

- Book reviews, volunteer manager profiles, letters to the editor and shorter pieces that make for helpful reading when time is limited.
- In-depth articles that dig deeper into subjects like ethical decision making, working with diverse populations and career development that can inform and challenge practitioners, executive directors, students and trainers.
- Training models that can be used as presented or modified to suit a variety of settings.
- Research results to help you separate fact from opinion about volunteering today.
